

Udon Thani Airport Reviews

Udon Thani International Airport (Thai: อู่ท่าอากาศยานนานาชาติอุdonธานี) (IATA: UTH, ICAO: VTUD) is an airport located near the city of Udon Thani (Thai: อุดonธานี also Udorn Thanee) in Udon Thani Province in the northeast region of Thailand.

Udon Thani Airport is approximately 280 miles (450 km) northeast of Bangkok. It currently has domestic flights to Bangkok (Suvarnabhumi and Don Mueang) and Phuket (on Thai AirAsia). In 2006 the airport had 677,411 passengers movements and 1,558 MT cargo movements. During the Vietnam War the facility was known as Udorn Royal Thai Air Force Base, serving as a front-line base of the United States Air Force and was the Asian Headquarters for Air America.

On February 8, 2006, an international group of skydivers from 31 countries called "the World Team" set a World Record for the largest freefall formation, a 400-way, over the Udon Thani airport.
